Shinwell Promises

The Coal Supplies This Week For Austin's

MR. RAYMOND BLACKBURN, Labour M.P. for King's Norton, the constituency which includes the Austin works, gave this news last night. It followed earlier discussions with Mr. Shinwell over the prospect of an "indefinite" stoppage affecting 14,000 workers because of fuel shortages.

Meanwhile 200 workers employed at the Dudley Foundry Co., Ltd., at Brimley Hill (Staffs), were told yesterday because there is insufficient fuel to keep the factory going.

Commenting on the situation at Austin's, Mr. Blackburn said: "I am satisfied from inquiries I have made that the trouble has been caused by a relation to distribution owing to shortage of wagons, and also owing to the fog."

Mr. B. A. Dinnits, Midland Regional Officer of the Ministry of Fuel and Power, said last night that extra coal stocks would be arriving at Austin's today.

"I don't know what tonnage will be involved, but the stocks will be carried by road transport, he added.

Poles Blame Britain

Warsaw, Saturday. In a note handed to the British Ambassador today, Poland accused Britain of financing and helping hostile Polish emigrés "even though they were fomenting a third world war."

The note was a reply to British charges that Poland was obstructing the Yalta and Potsdam pacts.

In strong terms Poland complained that Britain discouraged the return of Poles to their own country, had now organized Anders' army into a resettlement corps in Britain; and had returned either Poland's gold or her warships.

Greeks Cut Off Guerrillas' Heads

The heads of three captains of guerrilla bands were displayed in a nearby village after a battle in Greece, said an Athens report yesterday.

A Greek Government announcement stated that a strong guerrilla band had been wiped out in Thrace.

'MUST LEAVE INDIA'

THE British, "whether they like it or not, will have to leave India in the near future," said a United Front after the discussion of the country into Pakistan (Muslim India) and Hindustan (Hindu India). Mr. Mohammed Ali Jinnah, President of the Muslim League, declared at a Karachi Press conference yesterday.

"At long last the truth is dawning and British sentiment, the Press and the public are realizing what is the real situation in India," he said, referring to his recent visit to London.

He reaffirmed that Pakistan was the only solution for the Indian problem. With such an element of two stable independent governments — Hindustan

Gas Main Explodes, Houses Collapse

From Our Own Correspondent

FIFTY people were evacuated by the N.F.S. from houses in Clifton Wood-crescent, Bristol, today following a gas main explosion in which flames leaped 20 feet high from basements.

Ten minutes later there was another blast which caused water to burst from the houses to collapse.

Quies from shattered windows littered the narrow streets. Miraculously no one suffered so much to a serious one might due to the prompt evacuation of the residents.

One woman had to be dragged through the window of her house when it was seen that danger was imminent.

The evacuated people did not return to their homes until dusk today.

POSSIBLE CAUSE The explosion is thought to have been due to the gas main under the road surface being fractured by a car wheel passing the demolition of an air raid shelter.

Firemen rushed through houses gutting out first in the grates with hose-reel equipment.

Tongues of flame were seen coming from behind a wall in a room, and when the fire was moved the second explosion took place.

A soldier on leave, Frank Carol, lost all his army kit in the flames.

A similar gas explosion occurred in Clifton Wood-crescent, during the 1940 air raids on Bristol.

Priest Was Frozen Alive

Nuremberg, Saturday. HOW he had stood for one and a half hours in the snow before being found, was described today by Father Nicholas, a Polish priest, who was serving with the B.A.O.R.

When he regained consciousness he also saw a woman in blankets and was lying under a sun lamp.

Information refuted the claims of the 23 Nazi doctors who are being tried for "guinea pig" experiments on concentration camp inmates that only prisoners subjected to the tests.—B.U.P.

Lost Memory Girl

POLICE are seeking to establish the identity of a twenty-year-old girl speaking with a "nasal, belated" voice, who was found wandering in a distressed condition in Fisher-st., off Southdown Road, on Friday afternoon, having apparently lost her memory.

She is in the Homopathist Hospital, Queens-square, W.C. It is believed her name may be Margaret Smith and that she may reside in the Paddington area.

Crime In Berlin

There have been 700 murders, 2,240 robberies and 40,000 house-breakings in Berlin since July 1, last year, the British-licensed newspaper, "Telegraf," stated yesterday.

A Hard, Sad Quest

OPERATING at times 200 miles inside the Arctic Circle, RAF officers have spent ten months in Norway looking for men and machines lost during the war.

Crashes had to be investigated and bodies reinterred in 80 known cemeteries.

Their work means that there will be very few unknown burials among the 500 Allied airmen buried in Norwegian soil.

BIGGEST TREMOR IN WORLD'S HISTORY

Britons Killed In Quake And Flood

A NUMBER of British troops are reported to have been killed in the great earthquake and tidal waves which shook the south-eastern shores of Japan early this morning. Latest estimate of the total death-roll is 1,500, another 1,000 are missing and 20,000 homeless.

Seismologists believe that the 'quake was the biggest the world has ever known.

That it did not take a record toll of life was due to the fact that its epicentre was in the ocean bed, 60 miles from the British-occupied island of Shikoku.

Even so, 15,000 square miles of territory were laid waste by 'quake, fire and flood.

With communications down in the stricken area, reports of death and damage are far from complete, but tonight's estimate are that:

2,500 were killed and missing and 14,000 injured.

1,600 buildings were demolished and thousands of homes flooded.

1,400 fishing boats were sunk. The 'quake occurred at 4.20 a.m. local time (3.30 p.m. British time), and major shock waves were felt at half-hour intervals for a period of 12 hours.

Main land area affected was about 100 miles square, including Japan's second largest city, it included the eastern part of Shikoku, the British occupation zone, and Hiroshima, the first city to be atom-bombed.

British Army H.Q. at Kure shook violently for three minutes and was damaged. Several other buildings occupied by Commonwealth troops were damaged at Hiroshima, Southern Honshu.

American planes, flying over the area later, saw several villages on fire.

But the greatest devastation came from the tidal waves, which in places, which reached inland along 370 miles of the coast.

Six waves came in at intervals of 10 minutes, sweeping houses away like matchwood and uprooting trees with the wind.

In Kochi, a town of 100,000 people, more than 1,000 homes were destroyed, and many were swept away in the torrent, and it is feared that several hundreds of the inhabitants have been drowned.

The town of Tokushima, which was destroyed practically flat.

In both these places British soldiers, stationed since the war, Cameron Highlanders were in Kochi and the Royal Welch Fusiliers were in Tokushima, but reports have been received of any casualties among them.

At Kanran, another devastated coastal town, the people fled into the hills when the 'quake came. For a quarter of an hour nothing happened; then came a great rumbling as sea which increased until the tidal wave struck.

Houses collapsed, mothers screamed for their children.

One man on a roof-top said afterwards: "The town boiled in a dirty whirlpool."

Even in these towns, however, few thickly-populated areas, though Osaka had 14 killed and several hundred houses smashed.

So despite the severity of the shock, the total death-roll is low compared with the disastrous 1934 earthquake, in which 42,719 people were killed and over two-thirds of Tokyo (Tokushima) were reduced to ashes.

Tax 'Identity Card' For France

LISTS of taxpayers and the minimum amounts due from them in 1946 will be posted up publicly in French Town Hall.

It is proposed in the three months "Bave the Franc" austerity Budget presented to the National Assembly today.

It is regarded as the first step towards a "tax identity card" which every citizen would have to carry to show that he was up to date in his income tax payments.—Reuter.

Yard Seek Girl In A Rolls

COTLAND YARD chiefs are anxious to interview a pretty brunette, wrapped in a grey shawl, who used to arrive every Thursday night in a chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royce at a Regate Hill hotel.

She came to meet John McLean Mullie, the mystery barman at the hotel, who has since been found murdered in a disarrayed chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royce, near the Regate Hotel, near the Regate Hotel, near the Regate Hotel.

Thursday night when the blue Rolls-Royce arrived was Mullie's last night, and the car always waited for him in the hotel car park.

Neither his woman visitor nor Mullie was ever seen to leave the hotel, and the car was parked in the direction of London.

The Yard think that the murder of Mullie was the most skilfully planned for years, and that the full facts, when known, will be sensational.

Mullie, 35 years old, heavily built and former Desert Rat, is believed to have been hired to a flat in Kensington and smothered with a blanket, by at least two assailants.

"MAN WITH A SECRET" Inquiries started by the Yard, Scotland Yard, and the police in the direction of London.

But it has been established that the man made by the rope on his neck are superficial and occurred after death.

The police last night were still working hard on the Rolls-Royce and Mullie's man in the Regate Hotel, Mayfair and Soho areas were visited. They believe that the man was found, who will help their inquiries.

Vengeance is believed to have been the motive for the murder. The theory that he was engaged in black market activities has not been ruled out.

Homeless Heroes

The King Will Be The Host

The King will be Santa Claus to homeless war heroes this year. He has sent a cheque for provision of the Christmas dinner at the House of Shelter in London's East End.

When glasses are raised for the toast it will be a scene that Dickens would have loved to describe. For before they reach the House of Shelter the men who will dine there on Christmas Day had no friends, no hope, no joy.

They were drifting. Some because they were workless, others because they could find no place to sleep. At the House of Shelter they are saved of food, warmth, a roof over their heads.

A big man in many ways—volunteer, a man of letters, a big plump, apple-cheeked wife gives them roast potatoes, a cut of the joint, finds them a home.

They can remain at the House of Shelter until they find lodgings and a job. The ex-O.S.M. understands their troubles. He has been through the mill himself: the Army, the hopelessness, the hard times.

£93 Million Back Pay Claims

Suits claiming more than £93,500,000 have been filed in the U.S. courts by trade unions allied to the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The claims are for "portal to portal" pay for time spent on company property on the way to and from work—and damages. One union official said that the claims would eventually exceed £250,000,000.

Four actions seeking $14,500,000 have been filed in one day.

FAKE 'GIRL' SHOTS 'WIFE'

She Won £750 For Christmas

THE wife of a Welsh colliery skagger, who won the £750 first prize in "The People" Crossword No. 430.

She is Mrs. M. Lucas, of Glamorgan, Penarth, Bridgend, Glamorgan.

Such a marvellous prize—and just before Christmas, too!—said yesterday. "I have been trying to win the competition for years and I just wouldn't give up. I knew it must come eventually."

For a long time Mrs. Lucas has wanted some new things for the house. Now I can get them," she says.

The Adjudication Committee decided that the most meritorious winner on one square were those sent by Mrs. Lucas, who submitted a square which agreed exactly with the Committee's finding.

Subject to the terms and conditions of the contest, the winner of £750 will receive a cheque for £750 and each will receive £9.38. The £9.38 is the "prize" for the most popular square in the contest.

There's Money In This Magic

A BIG price would be paid to anyone who could tell the secret of the Indian Rope Trick. In this trick, which hundreds of reputable travellers claim to have seen in India, a rope is produced (and examined by independent spectators). It is thrown in the air in the middle of an open field away from trees, it stands vertical and rigid without any apparent means of support, a boy climbs to the top and vanishes.

The fakir follows with a knife in his teeth, slashes the air and the limbs, head and pieces of the flesh of the boy fall to the ground.

The fakir collects, pulls down the rope, collects the "pieces" of the boy in a bag, throws it to the ground, and within a minute the boy appears and the boy jumps out alive and whole.

£10,000 down, or £1,000 plus a salary of £250 a year, has been offered by Makekynes to anyone who can perform this trick to our satisfaction, and show us how to do it.

This challenge has been standing for many years, and I have repeated it. If anyone could claim the price of that piece of magic would gladly be paid.

The plain fact is that the trick has never been performed, either in India or anywhere else, despite all the travellers' tales about it.

It should make it clear that I can perform the trick—the one that Black velvet, mirrors and clever bits of mechanism can do so marvels. But the open field is too much for me—or for any other magician born.

THE presence of magic is a dangerous one, even today, and most magicians are heavily insured. Even so, clauses exist that preclude payment if any carelessness or oversight can be proved to have caused a fatality.

I vividly recall an occasion when we very nearly had to pay for our magic the price of a life.

No one knew that anything had gone wrong. We picked him up and helped him out of the car. He looked like Death itself.

But something had gone wrong! Only consummate skill and nerve had saved the man's life and our reputation.

YEARS ago a rivalry began over the price of a simple magic trick ended in suicide and murder. A young French Count, who was a brilliant amateur conjuror, attached to professional Pinetti, performed a trick, spotted the "works" and reproduced it to amuse his friends.

Pinetti lost some money and decided to take his revenge. He shadowed Count de Gris, waiting for a chance.

One night, when de Gris was amusing the King of France with some card tricks, and asked the King to withdraw a piece of the pack, the card selected had pencilled on it an obscene libel concerning the King.

de Gris was furious, and immediately left the room.

De Gris was socially ruined. His friends would not believe that he had been so stupid as to make a card, by selling his family heirloom, and to have been so stupid as to make a card, by selling his family heirloom, and to have been so stupid as to make a card, by selling his family heirloom.

De Gris committed suicide. De Gris committed suicide. De Gris committed suicide.

SEA DASH HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Aircraft carrier Indefatigable arrived at Portsmouth yesterday bringing from Norfolk, Virginia, 1,000 officers and men who had taken Leave-Land ships back to America.

In order to get the men home in time for Christmas, the Indefatigable made a high-speed passage across the Atlantic.

Charge That She 'Murdered Her Twins'

ALLEGED to have murdered her five-years-old twin daughters, Beatrice and Margaret; to have given poison to her daughter Patricia, with intent to murder; and to have attempted to commit suicide, Mrs. Mary Hilton, an attractive looking twenty-eight-year-old blonde, of Hope-st., Swinton, Lancs, was remanded in custody until January 5 at Manchester today.

In a passage way at the court a man who had been present at the proceedings came forward and kissed her before she left the building in a police car.

Supt. P. Waddington said that police were called to a house in Hope-st., Swinton, on the morning of December 8, to find a young Mrs. Hilton in an unconscious state. Patricia was in a similar condition and the twins were dead.

McCarthy, of Swinton, said he interviewed Mrs. Hilton at the Greenlane Institution in the presence of her father. To all four charges she replied: "I was nothing of the sort."

In court Mrs. Hilton sat on a chair in front of the magistrate and a woman officer behind her.

After a whispered conversation with the superintendent she came forward in a firm, clear voice for legal aid and this was granted.

Young Carollers 'Are Nuisances'

Pointing out that it is against the law for children under 16 to go out carol singing, the Chief Constable of Lancashire, Mr. C. C. Griffiths, has issued a warning to parents.

He states that the police have received numerous complaints from the public about the noise made by young carollers, and that the police are becoming a nuisance.

'NO' TO A POLICE REQUEST

AN application by the police which, if granted, would have resulted in the arrest of two children being kept in custody over Christmas, was rejected by Mr. E. V. Mills, magistrate, at Bromley (Kent) yesterday.

Miss Maud Starr, 23, described as the wife of a railwayman, was charged with being concerned in house-breaking with her brother, Reginald Stucky, aged 30—already in custody. She was allowed bail.

Det-Sgt. Hugh Perkins said that on Friday, when Stucky was remanded in custody for the second time on a house-breaking charge, he made a statement as a result of which the police called on Starr.

The sergeant alleged that when interviewed, she said: "Did my brother tell you it was me? I admit I have been out with him, but we did not break in anywhere."

He further alleged that later, at identity parade, she was picked out as the person who had broken into a house.

Supposing bail, Det-Sgt. Perkins said that at least five other charges of housebreaking would be brought against the brother, and it was inferred that the sister might be concerned.

There were several relatives living near who could look after the children.

5,000 Demand 'Repeat This Man'

Five thousand workers at Briggs Bodies, Dagenham, yesterday sent a telegram to the Home Secretary asking for the immediate release of Arthur Peter Whitten, thirty-three, of Abbeville-road, Glasgow, who was sentenced on Thursday by Miss Sybil Campbell, the County Bridge magistrate, to six weeks' imprisonment for stealing goods valued at £50.

The telegram asked for the release of the man with three children, whose wife is in a psychiatric home, a casual porter at Waterloo Station.

'MARTYR CITY' RETURNS

One-third of war-ravaged Stirling's wrecked houses have been restored and the city is now a "Martyr City" of Stirling.

They are moving into homes at the rate of 40 every day, according to reports yesterday.

County Without Electricity

The whole of Cornwall was without electricity from early yesterday.

Causes was a breakdown in the central electricity board's grid system at Salts.
